About

Dr. Mehul Taylor is a board-certified orthopedic surgeon who practices at Ridgecrest Regional Hospital. He has served patients in the Antelope Valley and Ridgecrest communities since 2008 and brings extensive experience in general orthopedic care.

Dr. Taylor treats both adult and pediatric patients and specializes in arthroscopic surgery, fracture care, and joint replacement of the hip, knee, and shoulder. He is committed to developing personalized treatment plans that help patients return to work, sports, and the activities they enjoy.

Dr. Taylor earned his Bachelor of Science in Physiological Sciences from UCLA and his medical degree from Chicago Medical School, where he graduated with honors and was elected to the Alpha Omega Alpha Medical Honor Society. He is certified by the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgery.

A Southern California native, Dr. Taylor takes pride in serving the communities he has cared for throughout his career and helping patients maintain active, healthy lifestyles.
