About

Dr. Brittany Toffey is a board-certified internal medicine physician who began her medical career in New Jersey. She earned her undergraduate degree from Dartmouth College and received her Doctor of Medicine and Master in Public Health from Rutgers New Jersey Medical School. She completed her residency in Internal Medicine at New York-Presbyterian/Weill Cornell Medical Center.

Her clinical interests include preventative and lifestyle medicine, diabetes and lipid management. Dr. Toffey is passionate about empowering patients to take an active role in their health and enjoys forming long-term relationships with those she serves.

Dr. Toffey is now practicing internal medicine in Ridgecrest, where she welcomes new patients. Outside of medicine, she loves spending time hiking, skiing, running, and being with her family.
