REGIONAL HOSPITAL

In 2024, Ridgecrest Regional Hospital proudly reopens its Labor and Delivery services, a crucial milestone for the entire community. As the only labor and delivery hospital within a two-hour drive, RRH's return to offering these services allows expectant mothers to stay closer to home and loved ones throughout their pregnancy journey.

This renewed local access translates to reduced travel, prompt medical care, and a more personalized birth experience—key factors that can make all the difference for growing families. By restoring these vital services, RRH reaffirms its commitment to providing safe, compassionate, and convenient healthcare for mothers and babies in the region.
